

New York Symphony Orchestra, Says Secretary, "Permanent" Two Years

Protests Against Claim of Supporters of New Philharmonic Under Mahler—Anyhow, Music Lovers Needn't Worry.

BY SYLVESTER RAWLING.

SUPPORTERS of the New York Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Walter Damrosch, object to some of the statements made yesterday by the organizers of the new Philharmonic permanent orchestra, of which Mrs. George R. Sheldon is the moving spirit. Mrs. Sheldon and her associates have persuaded the members of the old and tried Philharmonic Society, a co-operative institution with nearly three-quarters of a century of history behind it, to surrender some of their rights and privileges and to come under the exclusive and absolute direction of Gustav Mahler, one of the world's greatest conductors, who has been engaged as director for two years.

Some of the best known wealthy music lovers of the city, both men and women, have guaranteed to meet any excess of expenditures over receipts of the orchestra for three years beginning next October. The individual players are to work for at least twenty-three weeks a year for a stated salary, and to give all their time to the work of the orchestra during the term of employment.

The Symphony Society objects to a sentence in the original statement of the supporters of the new Philharmonic Society that "New York now possesses for the first time a permanent orchestra in the true sense of the word." Richard Welling, the secretary, writes this "is distinguished, as for two years ago it was not." The organizers of the new Philharmonic Society of New York has been on a "permanent basis." Our musicians are engaged at a regular salary for from three to forty-five weeks during the year to devote themselves exclusively to the study and performance of symphonic music. Let me add that the annual output for orchestral salaries exceeds $50,000.

The fight is a pretty one as it stands, and out of it there cannot fail to come good results for the mass of music lovers of the city. In time, perhaps, we may succeed in "knocking out" New York's reproach that the finest orchestra in America is that of the Boston Symphony, which is maintained against loss by the private purse of that public spirited citizen of the Hub, Col. Higginson.

TRAP BURGLAR AT GUN'S POINT THROUGH SHADOW

Gustav Miller may be a resourceful man, and if that the police say is true, he is, but he should have remembered that under certain conditions the human form casts a shadow. This slight lapse of memory on Gustav's part is what caused him to be a prisoner in the Fifth street police station to-day on a burglary charge.

Policeman Connolly was passing Otto Schmidt's saloon, No. 33 Bowers, early to-day, when he noticed a shadow on a frosted glass door leading into a private hallway. It was a queer, mysterious shadow, and seemed intent on penetrating the barroom, into which a door of the private hall beyond the frosted glass opened.

Policeman Connolly was puzzled for a moment. He knew the saloon had been burglarized twice within three weeks, because Capt. Herlihy had told him so and ordered him to keep an eye on it. He was certain the intruder came from the back way and that if he exposed him he would vanish the way he came. Finally he rushed up to the frosted glass door, smashed it with his nightstick and, covering the man inside with his pistol held in one hand, used his other to tap on the pavement for the nearest policeman. When his partner came Miller was forced to come out.

The police say they found on the man a carpenter's chisel, which he was using to cut through the barroom, a file, a jimmy and a bunch of keys. Miller said he was twenty-five years old, a bartender and without a home.

The police were said to get Miller. They say they believe he is the one who burglarized the saloon twice before. About $30 in money was taken then, together with a generous supply of choice liquors and cigars. The first time the thief cut through a rear window, after which he went into the barroom. The next time, apparently knowing about the bars, a visitor cut through the wash room. A sheet iron door was installed there, and today Miller climbed to a shed roof and came through a second story window.

PROMOTION FOR CUTTING.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—The President has sent to the Senate the nomination of W. Bayard Cutting jr., of New York, to be Secretary of Legation at Tangier, Morocco.

Answer This Question

When thousands of women say that they have been cured of their ailments by a certain remedy, does this not prove the merit of that remedy?

Thousands of women have written the story of their suffering, and have told how they were freed from it by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—for thirty years these reports have been published all over America.

Without great merit this medicine could never have gained the largest sale of any remedy for woman's ills—never could have become known and prized in nearly every country in the world.

Can any woman let prejudice stand between her and that which will restore her health? If you believe those who have tried it you know this medicine does cure.

Read this letter from a grateful woman, then make up your mind to give Mrs. Pinkham's medicine a chance to cure you.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—"I am a firm believer in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was a great sufferer from organic female troubles for years, and almost despaired of ever being well again. I had bearing-down pains, backache, headache and pains in my abdomen, and tried Mrs. Pinkham's Compound as a last resort. The result was astonishing, and I have used it and advocated it ever since. It is a great boon to expectant mothers. I have often said that I should like to have its merits thrown on the sky with a search-light so that women would read and be convinced that there is a remedy for their sufferings. "My husband joins me in its praise. He has used it for kidney trouble and been entirely cured."—Mrs. E. A. Bishop, 1915 Atlantic Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.
